The school house meetings are everywhere successful. See new dates this week. Watch for your locality in the list and when it is announced see that your whole neighborhood is made aware of it.

The Geuda Springs Herald don't like the style of Rev. E. B. Williams' speaking. According to the Herald's argument it would pay the Republicans to hire him to stump the state. A struck bird always flutters.

Susan B. Anthony is coming to help her notorious cousin to "stand up for Kansas." It is no use Susan. "The boss's eyes are set." The voters are intelligent and can't be hoodwinked by sophistry. They are for Weaver, Field, Lewelling, Simpson and the whole People's ticket and no amount of pleading will divert them from their fixed determination.

One of the ablest, most aggressive papers that comes to our table is the Ottawa Journal. The way it pours grape, canister and hotshot into the enemy is a sight to behold. The Journal is an army in itself and shoots to kill. It is not only an able defender of the People's party but of the fair name of Kansas, principle and home as well. November 9 the Republicans will find themselves under about six feet of snow.

NATURAL MONEY.

"Money is one of the things of nature."—James Humphrey in the Agora, Salina, Kansas.

This is a fair sample of the unwarranted averments indulged in by a certain class of political economists. Dogmatic assertion does not prove anything. The above declaration is one of those careless statements frequently made by those who, instead of throwing light upon the subject, cast thick darkness around it. Let us see upon what kind of a basis the assumption rests that "money is one of the things of nature."

"Nature," according to Webster, "is the existing order of things; the world of matter, or of matter and mind; the creation; the universe."

What do the eminent personages, who have made the study of the various departments of nature a specialty, say about it? Anyone can look the matter up for himself. It will be found that the botanist has failed to discover money growing; that the zoologist does not describe it as living; that the paleontologist has not found its remains; that the geologist fails to mention it; that the microscopist is in ignorance of it; that the astronomer does not report it; that the chemist does not record any analysis ever having been made of it; that the meteorologist never observed it; that the geographer has not located it; etc., etc., etc.

Does not the evidence of these witnesses cause a strong suspicion to rapidly develop into a conviction that shadows forth the antithetical, and the true, proposition that money is not one of the things of nature? Certainly! There is as much reason to say that a watch, or a plow, is one of the things of nature, as it is to say that "money is one of the things of nature?" Some of the things of nature enter into the composition of a watch, or a plow, and also money, but no sane man will contend that watches, plows and money existed before the human race existed; or that, since the human family appeared upon the stage of the earth's affairs, watches, plows or money are a production of nature with which mankind had nothing whatever to do. If we are honest about this matter we must admit the truth to be that money is as artificial as any other invention of man; that it is the creation of the sovereign power of government instituted by men; that it is a convenience invented by reason of a nation for a medium of exchange among its citizens—a legal tender for the payment of all debts. "Money is the creation of law." That is what the Hon. John J. Ingalls said in the senate of the United States January 14, 1891.

This subject might be elaborated upon almost indefinitely. The proposition, upon its face, that "money is one of the things of nature," is so manifestly untrue that further comment is unnecessary.

Standing Up for Kansas? Who?

Sharon Springs Voice.
The noble Republican, Humphrey, the liquor-seller pardoner, who is making a school house campaign in the 3rd district for congress and drawing salary as governor; Lew Hanback, who draws his salary and whiskey money from the state treasury while out electioneering for Humphrey; Botkin, the drunkard judge, and abettor of the butcher and assassin, Brennan; Henrie, the anarchist, who educated the Republican state central committee in '88 in the art of blowing up buildings and injuring innocent women; Brennan, who murdered Col. Sam Wood in Judge Botkin's court house; Funston, a drinker at Vice-President Morton's whiskey bar; Geo. T. Anthony, the New York school fund embezzler, and who is travelling over the state campaigning for another office while he is drawing a salary from the state. These are the men who raised the glorious battle cry, "Stand up for Kansas." Compare if you please the enactments of such politicians while in office, to those passed by the People's party house we recited under the same heading last week.

Purchasable Patriots.

Topeka Advocate.
Republican papers just now have columns of glorification for Mrs. T. J. Smith, of McPherson, who has recently taken the stump for the republican party, and the circumstances of the case are so peculiar, it is due to the People's cause that there shall be a plain statement made of the facts. Much as we dislike to publish anything reflecting upon the integrity of the lady, she has placed herself in such a position that she must take the consequences of her acts.

Since the beginning of the campaign, she has been very persistent in her demands upon Mr. Bridenbath for steady employment by our state central committee, and considerable correspondence has passed back and forth in relation to the matter. Mr. Bridenbath has not been giving employment to any speakers, except the candidates upon the state ticket, only as they have been called for by the people. By an oversight Mrs. Smith's name was omitted from the list of speakers as first published in the Advocate, and bitter complaint was made of this to both Mr. Bridenbath and to this office. In fact, we were notified that if her name did not appear in the next issue, it need not appear at all, and Mr. Bridenbath was given to understand that dire consequences would follow any further omission of her name.

The oversight was more than compensated by the special notice given her in the Advocate by Mr. Bridenbath over his signature, but about the time that her name appeared as one of the lady speakers of the People's party, the announcement was made that she was to speak for the Republican party. What wrought this sudden change of front? Simply this: the Republican central committee agreed to give her forty engagements at $10 each, and the sequel shows that it was the money that she was after. It was not a matter of principle with her. It was simply a matter of dollars and cents. Had Mr. Bridenbath given her the steady employment she sought at $10 per speech, she would now be speaking for the People's party, instead of for the stand-up crowd. This is her way of standing up for Kansas. Whenever any person is in the market for dollars and cents, the stand-up crowd will be found ready to make the purchase. That is simply what has been done in this case, and that is all there is in it. This is a hard thing to say, but the facts justify it, and the great Republican blow that is being made about it, renders it necessary that the facts be stated. The Republican party is welcome to all there is in this mercantile transaction. Glory is all there is in it, for Mrs. Smith will not carry a vote with her.

This lady has been making speeches in this county. She has also made conversations—for the People's party.

Estray Notice.

Taken up by the undersigned, a roan pony with a saddle on; letter R on left jaw and N. R. on left hip; about 8 or 10 years old.

FRANKLIN SNYDER,
Seventy-Six township, Sumner county, Kansas, Sept. 24, 1892.

There is no use of anyone suffering with the cholera when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can be procured. It will give relief in a few minutes and cure in a short time. I have tried it and know.—W. H. Clinton, Helmetta, N. J. The epidemic at Helmetta was at first believed to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This remedy was used there with great success. For sale by H. F. SMITH.

THE DANGEROUS CLASSES.

How They Are Composed and What They Threaten in the United States.

The two dangerous classes in the United States today are the men who buy votes and the men who sell them. It is a custom, shameful though it may be, to buy and sell votes at election time. This statement is neither colored nor exaggerated.

It sends a dagger into one's heart to even contemplate it.

Laboring men see no light ahead.

It is all class legislation—in favor of the rich against the poor.

And then the devil steps in with twenty-five dollars in hand and says, "Take this money and cast your vote for this or that candidate."

More than two-thirds of the people of the United States are without a home—and a man without a home is without patriotism. What matters it to him what becomes of his country? If his country affords him no home why should he love or defend his country? If, in the bitterness of his heart, he says, as did Philip Nolan, "Damn the United States!" who shall blame him?

Without home, without property, without a country, without honor, without principle, they fall easy victims to the political panders who offer them money for their votes.

It is, indeed, a dark picture, a horrible picture.

It makes one heartsick to think of it. And the worst is yet to come.

In a short time the same men who are now buying votes will some day seize the government and put muskets into the hands of the men whose votes they are now buying, and at the point of the bayonet suppress free speech, free press—and even the ballot box.

The few will plunder and rob the people, and then with the plunder thus gained maintain an army to protect themselves in the possession of their ill gotten gains.

England hires Irish soldiers to crush the people of Russia.

There has been money enough stolen from the American people within the last twenty years to arm and equip a standing army large enough to keep in subjection the people of the United States.

And there are men enough who can be hired to "shoulder muskets" for that very purpose.

The men who buy votes are the men who would usurp and overthrow the government, and the men who sell their votes are the men who would act as soldiers.

These two classes constitute the dangerous classes.

They represent the extremes of society—the enormously rich and the monstrously poor, the unprincipled aristocrat of wealth and the depraved pauper.—Chicago Express.
